The Last Day to Register to Vote in the Primary is Aug. 1. Early Voting Begins Aug. 3.

The winner of the Town of Marana Mayoral and Council race is typically decided in the Primary Election.

Most Marana voters will receive an early ballot in the mail because they are enrolled on the Permanently Early Voting List. Those who are not on the list may request a mail-in ballot by calling the Pima County.

The Pima County Recorder's Office has just launched a new online voter lookup option called "Check Your Registration." This new option is located under the Voter Information section of the Recorder's website.

Utilizing this new search tool, Pima County voters can now look up their personal voter registration details, such as Political Party, Residential Address, and Precincts. Voters can also see precinct and district details, eligible elections, voting history and polling locations. For security purposes, voters must enter their First and Last Name, Date of Birth and either a Voter ID or a Driver's License Number.

Marana Police Adds Eight New Officers in Department Pinning Ceremony

Officers from across Marana gathered to honor eight new additions to the Town's police department. These freshly minted officers have completed the Town's rigorous police academy and field training program and are now ready to begin their careers as fully trained and qualified officers.

In a ceremony that opened with a moment of silence, the risks of entering this profession were a focus of Chief Rozema's comments. "It's hard to bring people into this profession at a time when it's scary to be an officer," he explained. "Everything that's going on, though, does not change how we conduct ourselves every day. We treat every person we meet out on the job with total respect."
